ROUND-UP WILL BE BIG FAIR FEATURE

As plans for the "Wild West" entertainment develop it is becoming more and more apparent that the roping and bronco-busting and kindred sports will constitute the most picturesque and probably the most popular feature of the whole state fair.

Secretary Tom Binkert was busy this morning working out details of the "frontier days" card, which will run over the whole week of the fair. It is likely that the program will be called the Albuquerque Round-up, and the efforts will be to give it all the characteristics that have made the Frontier Days celebration at Cheyenne and the Round-up at Dewey, Okla., famous and country-wide attractions. Secretary Binkert will study the manner of doing things at Cheyenne and Dewey, and the best they have to offer in the way of suggestions will be adopted.

The program will include riding and roping contests, relay, cowboy, cowboy, cowgirl, Indian, potato and rose races, and fancy and trick roping. Wide publicity will be given the Round-up and word of it is to be scattered all through the country.

NEWSIES WILL BE O. R. E. GUESTS AT DeKREKO CARNIVAL

It will be newsboy night at the O. R. E. carnival tonight. All the Herald newsies, the boys who sell the paper on the streets as well as the carriers, will be the guests of the management, through the kindness and hospitality of Manager Jean De Kreko of the De Kreko shows.

The boys will be marshalled at the Herald office this evening. From the office at 7:30 o'clock they will march to the carnival grounds at First street and Central avenue and there they will be given the freedom of the tent city.

And maybe the boys aren't tickled at the idea of going to the carnival! They have all been strong for the O. R. E. ball nine, because it knocks the stuffing out of other teams just like world champions, but now these newsies to 'em the O. R. E.'s as a bigger team than the Athletics or the Giants. When did the Giants or the Athletics ever give the newsies a carnival party? Not ever! So there you are.

EL PASO DOES NOT WANT THE CHINA KID

Chief of Police McMillin received word today from Chief of Police Davis of El Paso that "the authorities of the border city did not want James Moore, alias the China Kid, picked up here Thursday. The Kid is a crook, the police say, and since he came here from El Paso the authorities there were queried to see if he had skipped to escape arrest. He is under thirty-day sentence as a vagrant."

Quiet Marks Albuquerque's Observance of Denatured Fourth. Cops Frown Even on Cap Pistols. Races Off.

MUDGY TRACK STOPS MOTOR RACE PROGRAM

Albuquerque was a paradise of the safe-and-same today. There were a few parties, and that was about all in the way of celebration of the Fourth in the city yesterday. The rain forced Mark Levy to call off the motorcycle and auto race held at Traction park, the projected road race had hovered overnight, and seemingly not a cracker burst its jacket within the city confines.

There were to have been picnics and trips to Belen and other famous dings, but the downpour this morning put something of a damper on such affairs. There was a dampness already on the old-fashioned, noisy Fourth, laid by the stringent anti-explosives ordinance and riveted by police determination, and the patter of the rain was the only unusual noise heard when the citizens started holidaying. The police were strict about the anti-noise regulation. Cops gathered in even cap pistols.

Most of the stores and offices were closed, and the streets were an off-day air.

Things were livelier in Old Town this afternoon. The Alianza Hispano-Americanas started their celebration, which will continue this evening.

Things will pick up a bit in town this evening. At 5 o'clock a big party will start at the Shortle sanatorium, to which pretty much all the healthseekers in the city have been invited. Tonight at the Elks theater there will be a blue-ribbon boxing program.

Taking it by and large, it was a nice quiet day—so far as this chemicole covers. But there remain hours of the Glorious Day. Something may happen yet.

TRACTION PARK TRACK TOO SOFT FOR RACES

After an inspection of the muddy track promoter Mark Levy announced this morning that the scheduled motorcycle and auto races would not be held this afternoon. The track was much too soft for racing. "Too bad," said Mr. Levy, in making the announcement. He and the drivers were much disappointed over the rain. Card and conditions had been right for one of the most spectacular and successful speed carnivals ever held here. The entrants were keenly anxious to race, and they were sure at the weather man for spoiling the program.

CINCH MESA LAND IS ADVICE OF DR. WROTH

Well Known Surgeon, Former President of City Council, Says Prompt Action Should be Taken.

That the city of Albuquerque, either through its municipal government or through its public-spirited citizens cannot afford to let the opportunity go by to secure a patent to the 640-acre tract of land on the mesa, concerning which there is at present much agitation, is the declaration of Dr. J. H. Wroth, Santa Fe physician and surgeon, and former president of the city council. Recovering in St. Joseph's hospital from a minor surgical operation, performed several days ago by Dr. J. P. Kaster, chief Santa Fe surgeon, of Topeka, assisted by local surgeons, Dr. Wroth today expressed keen interest in the mesa land situation.

"If the city government has no funds with which to secure the land it is up to the citizens of Albuquerque to donate the money," said Dr. Wroth. "I am willing to be one of a number to put up $10 toward the $400 necessary to clinch the land."

"More than likely I will not live to see the day when the mesa land will be valuable to the city of Albuquerque. But within twenty or twenty-five years, which is a short time in the history of a city, the land will be extremely valuable and can be used for many purposes."

"My idea is to clinch the tract and draw water from Embudo canyon to water a few hundred trees which should be planted this fall or next spring. Within a few years the land would begin to assume the appearance of a park or picnic grove and would afford a delightful place for outings. My advice is to get the land patented to the city by all means."

KING CHARGED WITH STEALING WHISKEY

J. H. King will be arraigned before Judge Craig in police court this afternoon at 5 o'clock, charged with stealing a quart of whiskey at the Alvarado hotel. He was arrested by Captain Pat O'Grady on complaint by Storekeeper Hale of the Alvarado.
